PROLOGUE

"We know what we are but we know not what we may be." Shakespeare said it in the sixteenth century, but he could have said it in 1954 in an editorial to graduating Midwood students.

We know that we have spent four years working and playing together. To some of us they have been years of happiness, to others years of difficulty. To all of us it has been a period of maturing—of learning new things, meeting new people and developing new ideas.

But what we may be will be determined by what we do with the knowledge that we have acquired. We have lived what seems to us a complete lifetime, but we still have a full life yet to come.

We have learned many things here at Midwood that we should take hold of and keep as our ideals throughout our lives. We have sweated on and supported losing teams, and seen the fruit of that effort come in glorious victory. We have seen the wonderful things that can be accomplished when people of different religions and races work side by side for the common good.

What we may be is also effected by the negative influences that have played upon us, and our ability to know "wrong" and regard it as such. For example, we have witnessed unwarranted encroachment upon free inquiry and free speech, as well as other democratic rights. We have felt the sadness and sense of difference in the community and even among some of our students because of an economic and social disparity. If we are able to recognize these things as "wrong" and regard them as such then our experience with them has been an important part of our education.

We are now ending a great era in our lives and entering into an even greater one. Let us put to good use the experiences we have had and make the best of the future we have before us.

Principal's Message

Dear Seniors:

I owe you a debt of gratitude for helping to make my first year as Principal of Midwood a pleasant one. At all times I felt I could rely upon your cooperation and understanding.

Dr. Conant, former president of Harvard once wrote: "Unless the educational process includes at each level of maturity some continuing contact with those fields in which value judgments are of prime importance, it must fall far short of the ideal. The student in high school . . . must be concerned, in part at least, with the words 'right' and 'wrong' in both the ethical and the mathematical sense. Unless he feels the import of those general ideas and aspirations which have been a deep moving force in the lives of men, he runs the risk of partial blindness."

Your graduation is in itself proof that your eyes have been somewhat opened to the spiritual and moral values that must govern human relationships, and to the ideals and aspirations implicit in our democratic way of life. But the real challenge or test is still ahead of you. There are forces abroad which would have you believe that comfort or material gain is all that matters; that the ancient virtues of honesty, decency, unselfish service, and sympathy are outmoded; that the basic worth of the individual must give way to the communist worship of the all-powerful state.

I trust that your experience at Midwood will help you meet this challenge. By holding fast to fundamental moral values and democratic ideals you will play a part in building a better nation and a better world. Godspeed to you.

Sincerely yours,

J. L. BERNSTEIN,
Principal

So Worthy a Friend

Dear Dr. Bernstein,

This last year at Midwood has been the most significant of our lives. We will leave the halls of Midwood happy in spirit, yet reluctant at heart. We realize that the road before us is not very clear; and all of Midwood, all of the subtle values we had taken for granted loom before our eyes.

We wish to take advantage of this opportunity to tell you of our deep and sincere gratitude. Although we have known you for only a short time, we have deeply felt your genuine interest in us, and we are truly grateful for it.

To many, Midwood is the final schooling; to others, Midwood stands as a solid step towards our future aspirations. Within this senior year we have been able to feel close to you, our principal. The privilege of making an appointment with you, and talking over our problems is a great one. We thank you for the help you have given us.

You have aided us in developing for ourselves fine, clear-cut work habits and those other things essential to a successful future. To many of us, you have been a paragon of kindness and understanding. We only hope that we can live up to the standards that you have set for us.

It is gratifying to know that the future classes in Midwood will have as stimulating and as encouraging a friend and principal as you. It is for those future classes as well as for ourselves that we say, "Thank you from the bottom of our hearts."

Much Ado About Nothing

How many times have you sat and thought of your past years at Midwood? As you meander through time you laugh at recollections which may have seemed like tragedies when they occurred. Let's transfer ourselves back through time and see whether we can remember some of those vague experiences that are buried in the deepest corners of our brains.

September 11, 1950! That day seems to be a favorite for our imaginations to run away with. Just what would happen once those seemingly welcome and friendly doors closed behind us? Would the teachers be kindly, motherly, benevolent individuals, or would they resemble Martians with that third big blood shot eye used only for reading test papers? Ah well! With an almost unbiased and clear mind, we set about looking for our rooms. After 15 minutes of utter confusion and three trips around the building, we arrived. Selecting a seat in the last row, we tried to 'Dig' what that 'Kool' teacher was saying. What a landslide! Whatever did she mean by program cards, delaney cards, pink cards? All of a sudden a frightening noise reached our poor overworked ears.

Are we being attacked? No. Get down from the walls children. It's only Dr. Ross extending his greetings. Well, we floundered through that term and finally earned the titles of "Civilized Freshies!" Much to our surprise, we came through the entire episode unscathed. Eleanor Roosevelt won the F.D.R. award and came to Midwood that year.

Our third term was an important one. The ban on extra curricular activities was lifted. That meant the return of our sports and clubs. To celebrate we all joined the 'Boosters.' We even indulged in a pep rally, complete with band and cheerleaders! As a group of happy, unsuspecting children, we rushed to enjoy our first meal in the cafeteria.

If you see things moving before your eyes, don't go to an occu'st. Relax! You're alright. It's just the flying saucer season. Everyone else is seeing them so why not be in style? We survived that term and managed to change quietly into "Upper Sophs." "D.A.'s," "Flat Tops," "Poodle Cuts" and "Pony Tails" were walking around everywhere. We actually found ourselves becoming fond of Midwood. That June we really stuck our noses in the air. Our mixed Chorus sang at Carnegie Hall. We turned the page and concluded two years in Midwood High School.

Juniors! Remember that famous quote? "To school or not to school." That was the question. The New York City bus strike certainly messed up our schedule. That year we all went to the Winter Festival and enjoyed the first Junior Prom in Midwood's history. Across the hall from the library the Natalie Chancy music lounge was being built. Nineteen hundred fifty-four will also be remembered as the beginning of our daily morning singing of America and saluting to the flag.

And then we became Seniors. When said with proper reverence, it just sounds wonderful! We pinned on our Senior buttons and bought our Senior hats. We never got so much prestige for 85c. Our time schedule was changed and we found ourselves sharing the hall with a lot of lower termers. We took college boards and filled out college or job applications. We went to the Senior dance. We celebrated Senior day. We worked on Epilog and the Senior Show. Somehow, we managed to get everything done almost before the deadline. Then, after months of waiting, we took off for the Statler Hotel and our Senior Prom.

Well, that about does it. We have just lightly reminisced through our entire High School career. Why, listen, the orchestra is playing the final strains of the Recessional. Graduation is over! And we, the class of '954, are ready to face the world.

It's time to say Good-bye now. Good-bye to Midwood, Good-bye to our teachers and Good-bye to four wonderful years of our lives.

LOVE'S LABOUR LOST

Throughout our four years at Midwood, all of us have stored away several never-to-be-forgotten incidents and impressions, about which we shall reminisce long after bidding our alma mater farewell.

For many, it is the athletic phase of high school life which will have the deepest and most lasting imprints.

Unfortunately Midwood, (much to the chagrin of those who have past attending rival schools) has never been able to boast of consistent athletic prowess in any field. But perhaps this made the rare triumphs all the sweeter. We resigned ourselves to the fate of having victorious Math teams, and sorry athletic squads.

Few of us will be able to forget the happy day (it will probably go down in history) when we FINALLY WON A FOOTBALL GAME!! (It took seven long years for Mid-gridironers to accomplish this feat). It didn't matter that Manual's eleven, (our victim) was considered the "cousin" of every team in the loop. It also didn't matter by how many points we won. All that mattered was that at long long last we had won! No student body was ever more proud of Our Team than we were.

Looking back, how many of us went home and shed tears after our quintette dropped that heartbreaker in overtime to Madison during the '52 campaign? . . . How many of us thrilled to the triumphs of the '53 tennis team, Midwood's first City Championship outfit? . . . And how many of us can ever forget the names of Toorock, Dusenberry, Ifshin, Murphy, Melnicoff, Alter, Rubinstein, Fetner, and all the other athletes among the graduating ranks who gave their all in order to bring our school a little glory?

A vote of thanks is due not only to these boys, but also to their mentors—the coaches who gave so many valuable hours and devoted themselves to training and building teams of which we could be proud.

We would like to render a special goodbye to Mr. Douglas Manheimer, who, after 8 years of ~~the norm~~ of our basketball team, is vacating his position. So long, Coach, and thanks for a swell job.

Many memories, some happy, some not so happy can come from four years of work and play.

Remember, in our freshman year, the disappointment we suffered when we found out there would be no teams because of the strike on extra-currics? . . . Remember the band out in full force, playing "Sons of the Blue and White" at the football games? . . . Remember this year's hoopsters surprising everybody by upsetting Lincoln's highly touted five?—(and couldn't you guess that this wouldn't be a league game?) . . . Remember the way the crowd would overflow the gym for Erasmus and Madison battles? . . . Remember??

This is goodbye, Midwood—And as a songwriter once put it, "Thanks for the Memories."

A Comedy Of Errors

Early one September morn
 Our Beamish Senior Sing was born
 It then became our hapless lot
 To try to fabricate a plot
 But nothing from the cosmic all
 Into our fevered heads would fall.
 Because of this decreed by fate
 Our chairman got quite desperate
 He slowly slipped into a funk
 And finally got reeling drunk
 And from his muddled brain arose
 A genius plot to make a show
 Nether Circus nor Baitu
 It rather looked like Mr. T
 From then on our work progressed
 And history, indeed, was made
 And so it was we did sing
 We didn't care we couldn't sing
 WE DON'T CARE
 WE WON THE SING
 Our talent was so great in song,

Three years ago the classes of '54 started preparations for their first Sing. At our initial meeting there were 7,345 g'rs and two boys. These boys were obviously interested in singing. Our minds were filled with glorious thoughts of competition, fame, and service credit. Pauline Falcone (may God rest her weary larynx) was our chairman. But we soon ran into difficulties. The ideas for the plot wouldn't materialize. We worked, concentrated, made burnt offerings, but to no avail. We were in a stew, so we left it at that. We decided that all the g'rs should wear short skirts: the reason for this was not clear. We lost. The reason for this WAS clear. We vowed we'd give them the next year. And we sure did. The opening scene was breathtaking. The entire chorus was dressed in red and black, and the flames were dancing over the backdrop. After the fire engines departed . . . Nevertheless it was quite a show. The climax came when our venerable old chairman, Pauline, stormed on stage and showed the devil just who wore the horns in this production. The finale annoyed one of the gentlemen in the judging section, a chap with an extremely ruddy complexion and pointed teeth. We lost by one vote.

And then we were seniors. We started off on the wrong foot by electing Alan Lapidus chairman of Senior Sing. After a preliminary struggle which was known as Betensky vs. the Senior Term, we chose the U.N. instead of jazz as our theme. Then with a prayer and Mrs. Tillis, we set to work. Our winning sing justified all our efforts. I doubt if any of us who were in Sing will ever be able to forget Saul Lessler as the overly virile Russian, or Herb Morkdoff as the crazy mixed up U.N. chairman or even the "Lady in Red" (flannels) Shelly Greenberg, to mention just a few.

The winning Senior Sing of 1954 will be remembered a long long time in Midwood High School.

Now, where to go after the Prom? Should be interesting to go to Bill Miller's Riviera. It might just get lonely up there, the two of us, alone . . . well, after the Prom is time enough to find a place.

[Wonder if I should shave? Definitely! How would it look to have a beard in the presence of all my friends who don't have to shave anyway. And while I'm here I'll brush my teeth, make a good impression on her folks].

Irving Karp

The alarm clock rang. She slowly opened her eyes and automatically looked at the window. Sun—nice day—my hair won't fall down. Three quarters awake, but still a little drowsy, she sat up in bed and glanced at the huge mass of pink net, pearls and ribbons, that had been hanging on the closet door for the past two weeks, (just to get the wrinkles out of course). Now, completely awake she realized that in exactly seven hours she would be going to the first of three parties, and then to that once in a lifetime affair. She jumped out of bed and ran to the calendar just to make sure that this was really the day.

Two hours later, in the beauty parlor, she tried to decide in which style to have her hair set; Grecian curls, Psyche knot or ponytail. She had the manicurist in a mad rage trying to find a nail polish to match the swatch she had cut from her gown. Just combine 'Cherries In The Snow,' 'Paint The Town Red,' a pinch of 'Fire And Ice,' and that's it.

A little while later, seated complacently under the dryer, she began to think of "him." It began to get uncomfortably warm under the machine, and then the beautician turned it on. "Six months ago, she had signed her life away by putting in a bid for the Senior Prom. From that day on she had schemed, chased, even offered "him" a job working for her father, anything to be able to be with him at the Prom. These thoughts sent chills up her spine and she had to move the dryer up to "HOT."

Later, after she had gotten home, she thanked the delivery boy and nervously opened the white box . . . Gardenias!! Two of them!! Oh well, not what she had meant when she subtly mentioned that white went perfectly with her gown, but the flowers were lovely anyway.

Soon she stood before the long mirror and smiled. 'My dear, you look simply divine.' The huge mass of pink net, pearls and ribbons had now taken the shape of a glowing girl. Her curls hung softly, glittering from bits of sparkle dust. Her skin shone and smelled fresh and sweet. Her heart was beating rapidly, she felt a warm glow all over. Her skin tingled and she felt dizzy. SHE HAD THE FLU!!!

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL

The parents stood at attention, their heads high, their chests expanded. Every mom, dad, and other sentimental relative was at his proud best. For today all their hopes and dreams would be realized. The strains of the processional sounded and awaited the moment when the youth of America, the hopes and dreams of the future would wend their way down the familiar aisle. Ah, youth. Oh, rare combination of brain, brawn, and beauty.

And then came the entrance. Every parent gasped. The graduates were descending the aisle with their heads gingerly skimming the floor and their inverted faces pale and gaunt. If one would listen closely, one could hear a painful moan or pant uttered by these forlorn creatures. The parents were horribly panic-stricken, but the Seniors gracefully collapsed in their seats. The principal ascended to the podium and presented the Senior class representative. Friends, it is my pleasure to present Pedro Frobusher, leader of Arista and Archon, Mayor of the City of Midwood, President of the Senior class, Senior Sing Chairman, Editor of Argus Epilog, Biolog, and Monologue (the dramatic magazine) and eighth period basket monitor for Mrs. Stave. The boy in question was an emaciated specimen. He climbed the platform with painful and slow steps. Why he was so gaunt and anemic looking that he resembled a Patterns illustration. "F . . . f . . . f . . . fellows . . . s . . . students," he murmured. Then his face turned a hideous but interesting shade of purple, he propped and fell down unconscious. That was the final stroke! The parents stood and screamed out in open defiance. One bold parent gently roared:

"What have our children been doing in this school for four years that has made them such wrecks?" At this point, a kindly, soft-spoken, old lady leaped out from backstage. Her silvered hair was combed back neatly in two tiny pony tails. "Dahlings," she said, "it's this way. The reason for the lanky and depleted condition of the poor patootes is that they were the most active Midwood class in history. She quickly revived the lad and together they told the saga of the seniors.

When first these youths came to the portals of Midwood, they were much stronger and greater in number than as you see them today. Many of the originals of this class are absent due to some very regrettable reasons.

'Somehow, the fittest managed to survive, and here they are before you—The Graduating Class of 1954.

As graduation nears, our thoughts turn to the new life upon which we are entering. Now that we are ready to step into the arena where our future will be molded, we pause to reflect upon the last four years and analyze our achievements.

We have been made acquainted with a multitude of various foundations upon which we may plan our lives. Mathematics, English and science may have meant nothing but more homework and studying to some, while to others they may have been the start of careers which will in the future be of benefit to all mankind.

Throughout our entire schooling, integrated with every subject, we have been taught the basic principles of life and democracy. We learned that whatever we build, no matter how small or of what magnitude, cannot be constructed by one individual, but needs the combined efforts of many people, all working side by side toward a common goal. All the material we acquire throughout our lives will be worthless to us without the combined cooperation and teamwork of all our fellow men.

Another phase of the principle of democracy is thinking and analyzing. In this world of tension, before drawing any conclusions, we must examine with a clear and open mind all situations and instances that we encounter. We can no more learn anything with a closed mind than we can pick something up with a closed fist. This appreciation of the democratic way of life will enable us to construct many new stairways to the building of our future.

As we leave Midwood, all with different hopes and ambitions, we must realize that from this time on through all the doors of our lives we will attain only what we ourselves earn. Midwood has given us the basic foundation. Now it is up to each of us to take our rightful place in this world. Although we may be scattered throughout the United States and later perhaps throughout all the countries on the earth.

We say, "Farewell" to Midwood High and to our new principal, Dr. Bernstein, who made our Senior term and graduation so memorable to every one of us, and to Dr. Ross under whose principalship we spent many enjoyable years of learning and gaining much of the educational and cultural foundation which is so necessary for a happy and successful life. As we part and go our different ways, some of us never to meet again, others life-time friends, we know we shall always look back upon Midwood as the foundation of our hopes, ambitions, and highest ideals.

A black and white photograph of a young man and woman, presumably the bride and groom, smiling and looking towards the camera. The woman is on the left, wearing a dark, possibly fur-trimmed coat, and the man is on the right, wearing a suit and tie. They are standing close together against a light background.
